Symptoms

The web-based version of Credit Union Consumer and Residential Mortgage Lending (CU01-210) was developed for online content and is not print compatible.

Solution

Currently, only the web-based version of CU01-210 is offered by CUSOURCE. However, the course material is available for download and printing, directly through the individual modules.

Note: The documents available for download and printing is not an exact duplicate of the web-based content, but is equivalent to each module's material. It is not recommended to split your studies between the two versions, but one can be used as supplementary material for the other, and vice versa. (Example: If you are studying the web-based content, you can use the printable documentation as supplementary information. It is not recommended to study the first nine pages of the web-based content, then study pages ten through twenty in the printed material.)

To print the course material:

1. In your Learning Plan, locate the module in which you want the printed material.
